

HISTORY

Spring 2025 courses at 2000 Level

Africa

- HIST 2368 Intro to African Studies Dr. Klieman
- HIST 2369 Jesus History Africa Dr. Chéry

Europe

- HIST 2311 Western Civilization to 1450 Dr. Patterson

Middle East

- HIST 2303 The Historian's Craft Sec 1 Dr. Yüksel

United States

- HIST 2303 The Historian's Craft Sec 2 Dr. Reed
- HIST 2327 Chicano History to 1910 Sec 1 Dr. Hernández
- HIST 2327 Chicano History to 1910 Sec 2 Dr. Hernández
- HIST 2328 Chicano History since 1910 Dr. San Miguel
- HIST 2382 African American History since 1865 Dr. Reed
- HIST 2386 - American History Through Film Dr. Mizelle

Global

- HIST 2314 Global History since 1500 Dr. Bhattacharya
- HIST 2321 Early Civilization Dr. Neumann
- HIST 2355 Global History of Food Dr. Bhattacharya
- HIST 2360 Intro to History of Science Medicine Technology Dr. Golubev

HIST2368: Intro to African Studies

Asynchronous Online

Spring 2025

Professor Kairn Klieman

This course introduces students to the geography, history, politics, economics, arts, and cultures of sub-Saharan Africa with focus on historical events that contributed to modern-day realities, the diversity of African peoples and cultures, Africa's place in the world, and African diasporas of the past and present. Fulfills Language Philosophy Culture requirement in the University Core.

Image: Visitation by El Anatsui (Ghanaian, born 1944) Made in Nsukka, Nigeria, in 2020 from found aluminum and copper wire. Installed in the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston.

HIST 2369

JESUS, HISTORY & AFRICA

M & W 11-12PM (NO IN-PERSON FRIDAY MEETINGS)

This course explores how various forms of organized religion supported multiple political structures, agents, and strategies from colonialism to colonial resistance and finally independence.

Questions? tmchery@uh.edu

History 2311

Western Civilization to 1450

Prof. Catherine Patterson

cpatters@uh.edu

TuTh, 10-11:20 a.m.

From the Code of Hammurabi in ancient Mesopotamia to the printing press in the heart of Europe, civilization in the West has communicated ideas of law and government, society and culture, values and beliefs in ways that have helped shape our world today. In HIST 2311, explore the origins and early development of western society, its attainments and its tragedies, from the ancient Fertile Crescent to the European Renaissance. You will learn about the broad context of events and ideas while developing your skills in critical thinking, communication, and writing.

This course fulfills the Language, Philosophy, and Culture (LPC) requirement of the UH Core for all majors and 3 hours of the civilizations survey requirement for history majors.

HIST 2303: The Historian's Craft
Dr. E. Cihan Yuksel
ecyuksel@uh.edu
Spring 2025, MoWed, 11:30am-1:00pm

Sun Clock, 17th Century, Uskudar, Istanbul, Turkey

The course explores the field of history and historical analysis while familiarizing the students with the basics of historical research and diverse approaches historians use. Students will learn how to analyze a variety of historical sources, will gain exposure to the diverse approaches to historical work, and will build foundational writing and citational skills.

History 2303

The Historian's Craft

Professor L. Reed

Office: AH 543 Email: lreed@uh.edu

10:00 – 11:30 AM T TH
C 123 (Roy Cullen Bldg.)

HIST 2303 will introduce students to historical research, writing, and critical thinking, including the fundamental tools that historians use and the range of work that they do. Students will learn how to analyze a variety of historical sources, will gain exposure to the diverse approaches to historical work, and will build foundational writing and citation skills. With a focus on 20th century social justice topics, such as women's rights, and civil rights, the class will include applied workshops. Specifically, students will conduct research, cite sources and create a bibliography, analyze primary source material, as well as construct and present historical arguments.

An Image from within UH Special Collections, M. D. Anderson Library

HIST 2327
Mexican American History to 1910

If you have questions, please contact Professor Hernández @
JoseAngel@UH.edu

HIST 2327: Mexican American History to 1910
Fall 2024
Mon & Weds: 4-5:30 p.m
SYNCHRONOUS—online mode

Course Description: The purpose of this course is to provide an in-depth exploration of the rich and complex history of Mexican Americans from the early 16th century to the Mexican Revolution in 1910. Students will delve into the transformative periods of conquest, colonization, independence, and revolution, examining how these historical events shaped the Mexican American experience. Through a combination of lectures, readings, discussions, and primary source analysis, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of Mexican American history during these critical centuries. This course encourages students to critically analyze historical events and their impact on present-day Mexican American communities.

HIST 2327
Mexican American History to 1910

If you have questions, please contact Professor Hernández @
JoseAngel@UH.edu

HIST 2327: Mexican American History to 1910
Fall 2024
Tues & Thurs: 4-5:30 p.m
SYNCHRONOUS—online mode

Course Description: The purpose of this course is to provide an in-depth exploration of the rich and complex history of Mexican Americans from the early 16th century to the Mexican Revolution in 1910. Students will delve into the transformative periods of conquest, colonization, independence, and revolution, examining how these historical events shaped the Mexican American experience. Through a combination of lectures, readings, discussions, and primary source analysis, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of Mexican American history during these critical centuries. This course encourages students to critically analyze historical events and their impact on present-day Mexican American communities.

HIST 2328: CHICANO HISTORY SINCE 1910

Spring 2025

Section 18150

Prof. Guadalupe San Miguel, Jr.

TuTh 1:00-2:30 H 28

This is the second of a two-part course series that examines the historical development of the ethnic Mexican community within the context of United States history. More specifically, this course addresses the major social, economic, political, and cultural trends and issues in this group's development during the entire span of the 20th century.

History 2382

African American History since 1865

Professor L. Reed

Office: AH 543 Email: lreed@uh.edu

T TH 1:00 – 2: 30 PM

CAM Isabel Cameron Bldg.

HIST 2382, which can be substituted for HIST 1302, illustrates that African American life and culture continued to enrich the United States after 1865. Key questions in this course address social, political, and economic issues and the lives of black people in America. Cultural contributions are also linked to survival mechanisms and key questions. Spring 2025 will bring the general theme of African American business enterprises into focus.

African Americans in Various Areas of America's History

HIST 2386
HISTORY OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT
THROUGH FILM

Professor Richard M. Mizelle, Jr.

Spring 2025

Asynchronous Online

Filmmakers have long shown an interest in documenting the events and figures of the Black struggle for equality and modern Civil Rights Movement. Join us in examining how these movements have been accurately or inaccurately portrayed in a variety of films, ranging from Hollywood blockbusters to documentaries.

HIST 2314 Global Civilization Since 1500

This course will examine global history from 1500 to the present. It will survey how the globe became course examine history 1500 to present. survey globe

connected or 'global' at an accelerated pace from the sixteenth century and how this globalization transformed societies. It will examine how historians have debated imperialism, colonialism, and globalization and challenges to these trends within differing societies. Key themes will include migration, trade, imperialism, war, race and caste hierarchies, industrial societies and transformations in ecologies, and societies after global capitalism in the European, Atlantic, and the Indian Ocean worlds.

[Image: Frederik De Wit's 1654 Dutch Sea Atlas. Image courtesy of the Harvard Map Collection]

Hours: Mon & Wed 10.00-11.30. Venue: AH 301.

HIST 2321: Study of Early Civilizations

Prof. Kristina Neumann

Face-to-Face - Tuesday/Thursday 4-5:20pm

This course examines the emergence of several major civilizations in the ancient world, beginning with the dawn of cities in Mesopotamia and ending with the fall of Rome. Our major focus will be on the Mediterranean and the Near East, but we will keep an eye on other ancient contemporary world civilizations and how they compare. You will not only learn the outline of each civilization's rise and fall but will also explore both the writings and the artifacts each civilization left behind through our primary source analysis. We will look at the influence each of these cultures continues to have on our modern world by tracing their contributions to political structures, religion, and culture. By the end of this course, you will have the tools to:

- define and discuss the different civilizations of the ancient world.
- analyze ancient texts and artifacts regarding their content and context.
- evaluate the legacy of the ancient world in modern society.

HIST 2355

The Global History of Food

Credit Hours: 3

M-W 1-2.30 Room H 30

Dr Nandini Bhattacharya

nsbhatta@central.uh.edu

This course places everyday experiences of food and eating within a broader human and natural history. We will consider how human societies have provided for one of their most basic needs using land and ocean resources, from early settlements to the contemporary era of “sustainable development.” Through a combination of secondary works and a primary texts, students will learn and practice primary source analysis, find and utilize web-based historical research tools, and build historical arguments in writing. Students will also use historical methodologies to critically examine contemporary debates within the food industry as well as broader questions of social and environmental sustainability.

Spring 2025

Mo/We 10–11.30 am

Dr. Alexey Golubev

HIST 2360

Introduction to History of Science, Technology, and Medicine

Image: Generated with Bing AI, modified with GIMP

Location: Science Building 202