Executive Summary

The Fall 2020 International Student Enrollment Report shows a continual decrease in enrollment of international students and of J-1 research scholars at the University of Houston. The changes has less to do with UH's ability to pull international students and more so with the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. This has created hardships for international students and scholars from entering the U.S. Open Door reports that the new international student enrollment population decreased an astounding 43 percent throughout the U.S.* Due to the strength of UH and the pull of transfer students from within the U.S., UH only saw a decrease of new international student enrollment of less than 24 percent. A positive difference of 19 percent.

The downward trend began of international student enrollment at UH began in 2016 and has continually decreased at a larger rate each consecutive year. This could be explained through the policies of the Trump administration and the increased competition globally for international students. The overall downward trend throughout the U.S. has been less than that of UH according to data from IIE's Open Door reports. We have to look to other, temporary factors, such as Hurricane Harvey in 2017 and the oil and gas recessions that have made Houston, as a city, less attractive for international students in the past few years.

The overall SEVIS reporting numbers have dropped 14.3% for fall 2020 compared to fall 2019, which includes all J-1's, F-1's, and their dependents. This also includes any F-1 students on Optional Practical Training (OPT). The international student enrollment itself has decreased 6% since 2019 while UH as a whole has increased enrollment by 2%. The international student population is at the lowest since fall of 2010 while the overall international student enrollment has seen a positive retention rate with an increase of almost 6% for undergraduate students.

The top two sending countries to the U.S. in China and India have seen a significant decrease in students, a -10.7% and -16.1% change respectively. Vietnam has remained steady and has increased in international students each consecutive year, including in the fall term of 2020, showing a positive presence and strength of the University of Houston within this country. Nigeria, Mexico, Venezuela, and Bangladesh also saw increased student enrollment compared to 2019. The current trends are showing that Vietnam, Mexico, Bangladesh, Nepal, and Egypt have seen their highest enrollment numbers of international students this year compared to the past eight years. While China, India, South Korea, Taiwan, Canada, Saudi Arabia, and the United Kingdom have seen their lowest numbers. If you remove China and India from the student population, there be a very minimal impact to the international student population at UH, even with the impact of COVID-19.

There are many positives to take away, esp. from the newly admitted student population of 2020, which has seen growth from the region of Africa, up 10.7% from last year. C.T. Bauer College of Business, College of Education, and the College of Pharmacy also saw an overall increase of newly admitted students compared to 2019. The report also shows an increase of students in Junior and Senior years of undergraduate studies in 2020. This may be due to students transferring to UH to complete their studies, which has kept the overall decrease in international students studying in undergraduate programs to a much lower percentage rate of -2.8% from 2019, compared to the overall decrease of -6.0%.

The COVID-19 outbreak hindered a significant amount of students from entering the U.S. for fall of 2020 and deferring their start date to spring 2021 or beyond. The potential of an increase of international students studying at UH for fall term of 2021 is very high. Coupled with the most likely shift in immigration policies of the new presidential administration, we may see the international student enrollment numbers increase significantly in the coming years.

Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) Report

What is SEVIS?

The Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) is a U.S. government internet-based system that tracks current information on non-immigrant students (F and M visas), exchange visitors (J visa), and their dependents (F-2, M-2, and J-2). SEVIS allows schools and program sponsors to transmit electronic information and event notifications via the internet to the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and U.S. Department of State (DOS) throughout the student's/exchange visitor's stay in the United States. SEVIS reflects changes in international student or exchange visitor status, admission at the Port of Entry (POE), changes of address, changes in program of study, employment authorizations, and other events. Immigration forms I-20 (F visas) and DS-2019 (J visas) are also issued through SEVIS.

The International Student and Scholar Services Office (ISSSO) was responsible for maintaining records in SEVIS for students, scholars, faculty, and dependents for the Fall 2020 semester that totals 4,763.

Fall 2020 Curricular Practical Training (CPT) Report

Curricular Practical Training (CPT) is an opportunity for non-immigrant students to gain practical work experience that is an integral part of their degree program. In order to be eligible for CPT, a degree program would either have to opt in for the experience track subplan and enroll in the University's COOP program, take a course that is part of the degree program and requires an internship or practicum experience to receive a grade, or be an essential part of a student's dissertation to gain the required research experience. CPT's are authorized per semester and a new application has to be approved for any subsequent semester that a student wishes to continue doing their practical training.

F-1 Employment Statistics: Optional Practical Training (OPT)

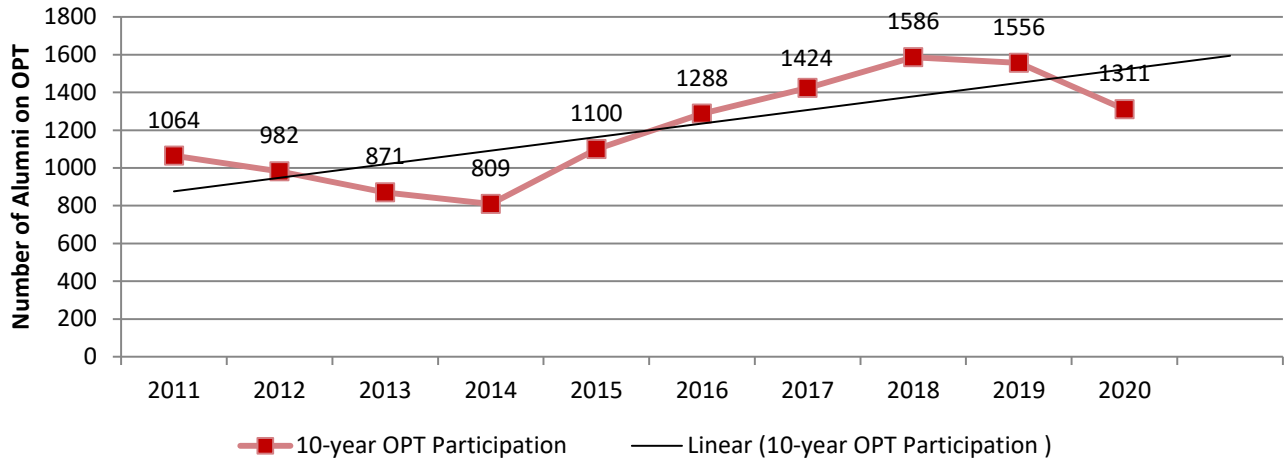

Non-immigrant students on the F-1 visa have the option of pursuing a 12-month employment benefit, immediately following completion of their degree program. The student must apply with the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) for permission to work. The student is able to accept employment that is directly related to her/his major area of study for a specified time period, upon approval. This time period is referred to as Optional Practical Training (OPT). Students graduating from certain science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) disciplines designated by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security may be eligible for an additional 24-month extension for a combined 36 months of OPT. There are 1,311 F-1 alumni from 73 nations participated in Optional Practical Training during Fall 2020.

Non-Immigrant Enrollment - Institute of International Education*

Top 25 Countries of Origin Report

Open Doors Report Explanation

The next few pages contain information specific to International Student and Scholar Services Office's reporting data to the Institute of International Education (IIE). It depicts non-immigrant enrollment counts by country of origin and field of study for the Fall 2020 semester at the University of Houston. Field of study designations were determined based on the Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) Codes associated with the student's primary major. These codes are not specific to a certain college, and should not be compared in this way. The following tables will identify the trends for the top 25 sending countries to the U.S. and what role UH has for these countries.

The first page contains information regarding enrollment rank of the top 25 countries in the U.S. and how many of these students study at UH while the following two pages have information regarding the CIP code designations. As you will note, the top 25 sending countries to the U.S. are not the same as the top countries that are enrolled at the University of Houston. Iran, Nigeria, Mexico, Pakistan, and Venezuela, for example, are higher ranked on the list for UH, but not in the entire U.S. On the opposite end, Brazil, Germany, Japan, and Kuwait are in the top twenty-five sending countries in the U.S., but have much fewer numbers at UH. The overall enrollment change of international students to the U.S. in 2019/2020 decreased by 1.8% while the numbers at UH have dropped by 6% as of the fall 2020 compared to fall 2019.

Language and Culture Center Enrollment: Fall 2020

The Language and Culture Center (LCC) is located on the University of Houston campus and provides students the ability to experience life at an American university while learning English as a Second Language (ESL) through a variety of courses designed to integrate them into the American educational system. LCC has provided intensive English instruction for international students on the University of Houston campus since 1975. LCC students may apply for admission to UH upon successful completion of the sixth and final level and passing TOEFL scores. Students enrolled in LCC programs are not enrolled in degree-seeking courses at UH and are therefore not included in the international student enrollment figures indicated earlier in this report. During the fall term of 2020, international students from 11 nations participated in the LCC program.
